Hector: Cat About Town
Notorious Gossip

Jimson was relating his experiences in India.
"I was taking my usual morning nap when I spotted three gladiators making for me, so I had to swim for dear life!"
"You mean navigators—something like a crocodile?" interposed Johnson.
"Well, what are gladiators?"
"Gladiators? Why, they're a sort of flower grown from bulbs."

Two Negroes were boasting about the merits and qualifications of their respective motorcars, both typical worn, shabby old wrecks.
One of them said: "Dey's jus' one reason why Ah can't turn dis heah cab o' mine two hundred miles a hounah."
"An' what's dat reason?" asked the other.
"De distance is too long fo' de shawiness o' de time," said the first.

Two small boys were gazing at the shop windows, decorated for Christmas. Presently they arrived at a butcher's shop, and one pointed to a number of hams hanging from a large holly branch. "Look, Tom," he said, "Look at them 'ams a-growing up there."

"Get away," said the other.
"Ams don't grow."

"Well, that's all you know about it," said the first scornfully. "Ain't you ever 'eard of a 'ambush?"

He was a very ordinary sort of fellow who got suddenly rich by striking oil, and was always trying to impress those with whom he came in contact with his great importance.

One day he rushed into the railway station, laid a $20 bill down at the ticket seller's window and said: "Gimme a ticket."

"Where to?" asked the ticket agent.
"Anywhere. It doesn't make no difference," said the newly rich man. "I got business all over."

The day after a somewhat stormy by-election meeting, the prospective candidate, looking rather battered, was discussing the position with his agent.

"I think you're getting at them," the agent said hopefully. "They seemed more inclined to listen to you last night. You are becoming more popular."

"Popular," snapped the candidate. "Why, they simply pelted me with rotten eggs."

"Yes, I know; but remember that they used to throw bricks," said the agent, consoling.

"YOU ARE AN OLD MISER"

Beggar With House
And £4 A Week

When Thomas Green, 76, a house owner, of Buxton-road, Edmonton, appeared before the North London magistrate (Mr. Basil Watson, K.C.) on Nov. 12, on a remanded charge of begging at Seven Sisters-road, Holloway, P.C. Moore said he had found that Green owned a six-roomed house, which he bought seven years ago for £235.

He let four rooms for 14s a week, and occupied the remaining two. He received an annuity of £4 a week from a step-sister, and when arrested he had in his possession 3s 4d notes, one 10s note, 16s in silver and 4s 2d in bronze.

Green: I am very sorry, sir, I assure you it will not occur again.

The magistrate: I strongly advise you not to let it occur again. You are an old miser, and you will be punished much more if I find you than if I send you to prison. Pay £5.

BRITISH TRADE FAIR

To Be Held At The Great World

Arrangements have now been made to hold the British Trade Fair, 1936, at the Great World Amusement Park, Kim Seng Road, Singapore, from Friday, May 1, to Saturday, May 9, 1936, both days inclusive.

The accommodation provides for approximately 200 stalls and a considerably enlarged motor vehicles section as compared with 165 stalls and the motor vehicles section at the Fair held in May last.

An innovation, provided sufficient support is given by exhibitors, is the proposal to allot stalls for the display of engineering products, electrical goods and apparatus, building materials, sanitary earthenware and appliances, chemicals, paints and lubricating oils, in a separate section of the Fair.

CONSERVANCY IMPROVEMENTS

Better Communication Facilities

Tientsin. The improvement of water conservancy, development of communications and introduction of political reforms are the key to the economic development of North China, writes Dr. Franklin Ho, noted Chinese economist and professor of Nankai University, in a special article published in a recent issue of the Ta Kung Pao, local vernacular paper, upon the arrival of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Chief, Economic Adviser to the British Government, at Tientsin to investigate economic conditions in the North.

Dr. Ho paid a glowing tribute to the British Government for sending Sir Frederick to China to investigate her economic and commercial conditions as a preliminary step toward the improvement of the trade relations between Great Britain and China.

ECONOMIC STRUCTURE

"The maintenance of lasting favourable trade relations between two nations," he points out, "must be based upon equality and reciprocity, and a thorough understanding of each other's economic conditions is indispensable in the development of international trade."

Taking advantage of the arrival of the eminent British economist in North China, Dr. Ho reviews the economic conditions in this part of the country, which form an important part in the gigantic economic structure of China.

North China, consisting of Hopei, Shantung, Honan, Shansi, Shensi, Kansu, Chahar, Suiyuan and Ninghsia, occupies a total area of 800,000 square miles, or about one-fifth of the total area of China. It has a population of about 103,000,000, or about one-third of China's total population. The density is about 163 to the square mile, which is higher than the average density of the whole country.

The total area of cultivated land in North China is approximately 482,000,000 mu, which is about 40 per cent of the total area of cultivated land in the country and is larger than the total area of cultivated land either along the Yangtze River or in Southwest China.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Among the principal agricultural products in North China are millet, cotton, and wool. The total annual output of millet is about 220,000,000 piculs, or about 55 per cent of the total annual output of millet of the whole country. Of this amount about half is for local consumption while the other half is distributed and sold in other provinces.

The total annual output of cotton is about 7,000,000 piculs, or more than 60 per cent of the total annual output of cotton of the whole country. Although only about 10 per cent of this amount is exported, this, nevertheless, occupies about three-fourths of the total cotton export of China.

The total annual output of wool is about 510,000 piculs, or about 92 per cent of the total annual output of wool of the whole country. Of this amount about half is exported to foreign countries, which is about 36 per cent of the total annual export of wool of China.

Industrially, North China, Dr. Ho says, also occupies an important position in the country. According to statistics last year, of the total of 92 cotton mills of China 22 were in North China. Their total number of workmen and spindles claims more than one-fifth of those of the whole country respectively.

FLOUR MILLS

Again, of the total of 30 flour mills in the whole country those in Shantung, Honan, Hopei, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyuan numbered 44, with a total annual output of flour amounting to more than one-third of that of the whole country.

North China is also the producing centre of matches, cigarettes, and coal. Of China's total output of matches last year, amounting to 320,000 boxes, upwards of 150,000 boxes (about 47 per cent) were manufactured in Shantung, Honan, Hopei, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyuan. Of China's total output of cigarettes last year, amounting to 220,000 boxes, about one-third was manufactured in the six provinces above-mentioned. Of China's average annual output of coal during the past three years, amounting to approximately 28,000,000 metric tons about 88 per cent was produced in the nine provinces in North China. The total amount produced in the three provinces of Shantung, Hopei and Shansi alone occupied about 83 per cent.

Commercially, North China, Dr. Ho asserts, is no less important than any other part of the country. The total value of foreign trade in North China during the year of 1934 was $238,000,000, more than one-third of China's total value of foreign trade.

However, in spite of its important economic position in the country, economic development in North China, Dr. Ho points out, has not been well balanced. Comparatively speaking, the four provinces of Hopei, Shantung, Honan and Shansi have been better developed economically, while the other five provinces of Shensi, Kansu, Ninghsia, Chahar and Suiyuan, occupying a total area of about three-fourths of North China, are still very backward.

FACTORIES IN TIENTSIN

Thus agriculturally, Hopei, Honan and Shantung are the producing centres of millet and cotton, two of the principal agricultural products of North China. Industrially, most of the big factories cluster in Tientsin and in other parts of Shantung, Hopei, Honan and Shansi, while there are very few factories in Shensi, Kansu, Chahar, Suiyuan and Ninghsia.

But geographically speaking, Dr. Ho emphasizes, there is no less possibility of economic development in the latter provinces than in Shantung, Shansi, Hopei and Honan. The rich mineral resources and the abundance of wood in these provinces far exceed those in any other part of the country. The fertile soil there are also most suitable for agricultural purposes.

The backwardness of these five provinces of Shensi, Kansu, Chahar, Suiyuan and Ninghsia in economic development, Dr. Ho states, is primarily due to poor conservancy and communication conditions. For economic development in North China, in general, and in the five provinces above-mentioned, in particular, efforts, Dr. Ho suggests, should be centred upon the improvement of conservancy and irrigation work and the development of communications.

The greatest difficulty confronting the development of agriculture in North China, Dr. Ho affirms, is the irregularity of rainfall. In Hopei, for instance, irrigation of the farm lands depends largely upon the digging of wells, which is both expensive and inefficient. North China is therefore visited by intermittent droughts and floods.

HIGHWAYS BUILT

With regard to communications in North China Dr. Ho says that although many highways have been built during recent years, these are mostly between leading cities, while in the rural districts, the means of communications are still as primitive as a century ago. To facilitate better communications in North China, a network of highways and railways should be built and modern vehicles should be introduced.

Besides the improvement of conservancy, irrigation work and the development of communications, the introduction of political reforms, Dr. Ho emphasizes, is also essential to the economic development of North China. The success of the Industrial Revolution in England during the 18th and 19th centuries, he points out, was primarily due to her political stability and the severance of the British Channel from the European turmoil then existing.

The disturbed political situation in North China has adversely affected its economic development. A strong indication is the gradual decline in commerce and industry. For economic development political stability must therefore be re-established.

Dr. Ho takes cognizance, however, of the complexity of the present political situation in North China, which tends to add difficulty to the governmental efforts toward political reform as well as economic development.—Central News Agency.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

BRIDGES AND HIGHWAYS

Progress Going On Apace In China

A ten-million dollar project for the rebuilding of the bridges along the highways in Kiangsi province is being formulated by the Provincial Highway Bureau. Besides appropriations from the Provincial Government, the Central Authorities will be approached for a sum of $2,000,000 and the National Economic Council for an adequate grant.

The Ministry of Railways has definitely decided to institute a train ferry service between Hankow and Wuchang, across the Yangtze River, in order to facilitate through communication between the Peiping-Hankow Railway Administration and the Administration in charge of the Hankow-Changsha section of the Canton-Hankow Railway. They have been instructed by the Ministry to devise plans for the realization of the project.

Shanghai will be about to talk with Canton by telephone on and after New Year's Day if the plans of the Ministry of Communications are completed according to present schedule. Preparations for the institution of long-distance telephone service between the two leading cities are now after many delays, nearing completion. Installation work at the Shanghai station has been completed while that at the Canton station is to be finished by the middle of December.

A consignment of four locomotives, purchased by the Kiangnan Railway Company from Europe, was recently shipped to Wuhu. With the arrival of the new rolling-stock, train service on the Nanking-Wuhu section of the Kiangnan Railway (Nanking-Chaoan) Railway was augmented on November 1.

Omnibus service on the Szechuan-Shensi Inter-Provincial Highway is being operated as far as Kuangyuan, northern Szechuan from Chengtu, the provincial capital, over a distance of 200 miles. As the distance from Kuangyuan to Nanking, the station on the Sian-Hanchung-Nankang Highway, a southern Shensi, is only 40 miles, the Szechuan section of the highway will be completed and put into operation before the end of the year.

Installation of the radio station of the Ministry of Communications at Hsien'g, provincial capital of Hsikang, having been completed, the Ministry has ordered the station to begin traffic immediately. The opening of the new station will greatly facilitate communications with the border province.

A Motor Service Bureau has been established at Pallingmiao by the Department of Industry of the Mongolian Local Autonomy Political Affairs Council. Besides attending to the development of highway communications in Mongolia, the Bureau will open a special class for the training of automobile drivers and mechanics. The Council also operates a school for the training of radio operators. Graduates of the 1st Class have been sent on probation to various radio stations to acquire practical experience. The 2nd Class, consisting of over 30 students, has been started.

Train service on the middle section of the Hualan Railway between Hsien'g and Chaohsien, on the northern shore of the Chao Lake in central Anhui, was officially opened to traffic on November 1. Through communications with the shipping services plying between Chaohsien and Wuhu, will also be instituted for the convenience of transportation. It is also learnt that the laying of rails on the last section from Chaohsien to Yuchi on the northern bank of the Yangtze River, opposite Wuhu, eastern Anhui, is making up one's mind. Work has already been started for the building of the main station at Yuchi.

ROAD RESEARCH PROBLEMS

Construction And Maintenance

Road construction and maintenance are exceedingly expensive processes, and it is therefore highly desirable that the money available for such purposes should be spent to the best advantage. This cannot be done without a clear view of the precise functions which the road itself is intended to fulfil, and it appears obvious that, at any rate in all new construction, an attempt should be made to balance the frequently conflicting claims of the various users, of those who are interested in maintaining the amenities of the countryside and of the tax and rate payers. At the present time, the evidence available suggests that while close consideration is given to the materials used, and the constructional methods employed, in actual road making, the wider problems involved are not receiving such detailed attention. Admittedly, these problems offer much greater difficulty both in definition and solution than those of a merely mechanical nature, and this no doubt accounts for the somewhat casual manner in which they have hitherto been approached. Among the wider questions facing those interested in road problems at the present time, there can be no argument that the most pressing is that of securing a substantial reduction in the number of accidents; in other words, in striking a juster balance between the claims of the various vehicle owners and those of the pedestrian. It is therefore decidedly disappointing to observe the scant attention paid to this problem in the Report of the Road Research Board for the period ended March 31, 1935, which has just been issued.

IMPACT AND SKIDDING

The majority of the work covered is an extension of that dealt with in earlier reports. Particular attention has been given to the question of apparatus for measuring impact, skidding, and accelerated wear. The motor cycle and side car combination hitherto used in skidding experiments was unsuitable for the investigation of certain problems such as the effect of the ratio of wheel track to wheelbase, and the braking of vehicles with trailers. This apparatus has been therefore supplemented by a single wheel trailer, which can be used with circular-track road-testing machines or can be attached to the rear of the laboratory's testing lorry. The apparatus has already been used on the road in connection with the experimental verification of the relationship between the braking force coefficient and percentage wheel slip, and will be employed later to investigate the effect of tyre size and wheel load on the braking force coefficient.

ARTIFICIAL WETTING

A method of wetting the road artificially has been employed in tests with the motor cycle, and it is stated that one rather surprising result of the work is that in wet weather roads in general are normally more slippery in summer than in winter. This statement appears to require qualification, as it seems fairly obvious that a road surface thoroughly washed by winter rains would be unlikely to be so treacherous as one with a wet coating of grass and dust. Investigations are being carried out on the component parts of the normal surface film which induce skidding, the apparatus employed consisting of a small wheel driven by an electric motor and mounted on a pivoted arm, the wheel rotating on a test surface mounted on a small trolley fitted with ball bearings, and restrained by a dynamometer spring. Before leaving the subject of skidding, a statement may be noted in the report that one obvious method of continuing the research would be to skid full-sized vehicles on a large surface. It is stated that this method would be expensive and somewhat dangerous, but may eventually have to be faced. In this connection, there is a somewhat widespread feeling that insufficient attention is paid in official quarters to the information relating to skidding possessed by experienced road users, who acquire a knowledge of dangerous surfaces often at a considerable cost to themselves. Such knowledge, however, would receive due weight in a scientific analysis of accidents such as we have visualised.

In the portion of the report devoted to road-testing machines, reference is made both to the laying down of experimental stretches of road and to road wear machines. Tests previously carried out showed that the type of bituminous carpet laid on concrete had little influence on the magnitude of wheel impact forces and that the results obtained on unhardened concrete were not appreciably different. These tests were made on the Kingston by-pass, but similar tests on the Hampton Court-Esher road produced different results. These suggested that the type of sub-soil might affect the result and this was confirmed by subsequent experiments.

BROTHERHOOD OF MEN ADVOCATED

Gen. Ho Chien Addresses Cultural League

General Ho Chien, Chairman of the Hunan Provincial Government, and concurrently Commander-in-Chief of the First Route Bandit-Suppression Forces, took time from the affairs of state recently to address the members of the League for International Cultural Co-operation in China on the need for universal brotherhood and justice.

Were the idea of brotherhood of men universally accepted, there would have been no cause for war, Gen. Ho pointed out in his address. He appealed to nations on a high level of civilization to aid, "like parents," the less cultured countries.

Criticizing militarism as the greatest foe of culture, Gen. Ho pointed out that there were two types of military influence—one that retarded progress, another that advanced it.

TWO TYPES OF CULTURE
Culture was also divided by Gen. Ho into two types, one rooted in peace, another finding inspiration in tyranny. The future of the world, he asserted, depends on which of these two cultural trends the nations choose to follow.

Confucius' idea of the "Family of Nations" looked improbable now, Gen. Ho admitted, emphasizing, however, that there was always a possibility of universalizing the ideal of human brotherhood.

Gen. Ho Chien's speech, which was entitled "Magnanimity and Selfishness," was translated by Dr. Y. S. Tsao, adviser to the Central Bank of China and former President of Tsinghua University in Peking. Another address, representing the fruits of Gen. Ho's research in the history of Confucianism, was read by Prof. Liu Hua-jui, General Secretary of the League and a personal friend of Gen. Ho.

DIFFERENT CULTS
In the paper General Ho, who is a close student of Chinese classics and philosophies, criticized the mistaken Western notion that Confucianism and Ju-ism were identical.

The two, according to Gen. Ho, are entirely different cults, the former representing the followers of Confucian teachings, and the latter embracing all branches of Chinese civilization. Confucianism, Gen. Ho asserted, was not one of the three principal cults in China—they being "Jiism," "Taoism," and "Buddhism."

GERMAN WHO STOOD, SILENT

"I Felt That I Was One Of You"

London, Nov. 12.
He stood in Trafalgar-square during the Two Minutes' Silence; his eyes gazed down Whitehall. He was a German.

A former commander, he had fought the British from the decks of a German battleship at Jutland. Now he stood beneath the statue of Britain's greatest sailor to join in a festival of remembrance dedicated to the Empire he once sought to destroy.

When the signal had been given for London's pulse to beat again, I asked him what he thought of November 11.

"Just the sound of pigeons' wings," he said, "and all around the people of a mighty nation which has learned the great lesson of spiritual humility."

"The vast silent concourse was not just a gesture; as I stood there I knew—I could feel—that the people really were thinking."

"And I, a German, among the British people and their dead—I felt that I was one of you."

"There is never hate among ex-servicemen of different nations."

No Trouble
Mistress (to her maid): Now, Nora, I always take my bath at 8 every morning.

Nora: "Well, right, ma'am; I won't interfere with me a bit. I'm never ready for mine before 10." Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

AIR MAILS TO CANADA

A New Service
Planned

(Special Air Mail Service.)

London, Nov. 17.

The visit of important Air Ministry, Post Office, and Imperial Airways representatives to Canada to discuss with representatives of the Dominion, Newfoundland, and the Irish Free State the intended North Atlantic air service definitely brings nearer what will be one of the greatest achievements of the age.

The bridging of the North Atlantic by an air service is all that is needed to seal the conquest of the air. It will fulfil a dream which but a few years ago was regarded as fantastic.

Its place in the great plan of world air transport was indicated the other day by Sir Eric Geddes, the chairman of Imperial Airways, in a speech which included this statement:—

"We are already launched with Pan American Airways for the operation of alternate services between Bermuda and New York, to be inaugurated as soon as the airport in Bermuda is completed. Pan American Airways has already undertaken experimental flights in the Pacific, where the United States has special interests, and we hope that the day may come when it will be possible for a British Pacific service to work in close co-operation with the United States service."

The British service will probably operate from Vancouver to New Zealand and Australia, while the United States service will doubtless operate to the Philippine Islands, and I hope it will continue from there to Hong Kong, and connect with Imperial Airways service to India, Africa, and Home.

A CHOICE OF STATIONS
The discussions in Canada are to relate to the choice of stations (already considered by experts on the spot), routes, and mail-carrying. There is little doubt that the opportunity will be taken to examine the United States air mail system.

It has not yet been decided whether on this side of the Atlantic an intermediate station shall be established in the north or in the south-west of Ireland. That one is necessary is obvious. It would shorten by some 350 miles the non-stop, direct, trans-Atlantic route; and this is very important in view of the prevailing winds from the west which commonly impose the need to carry a very great quantity of fuel, since they greatly reduce the travel speed. In that direction, of an aeroplane.

It is for this reason that strong support is given to the one-way traffic system, a trans-Atlantic service taking a more southerly course on the westwards than on the eastwards run, for a southerly course would avoid the prevailing strong westerly winds.

A glance at the map will show that so far as distance is concerned, a route with an intermediate stage in the south-west of Ireland would offer many advantages.

Two of three years must elapse before a service is started. The twenty-nine big flying boats which are being built for Imperial Airways are nearly all needed for the projected accelerated and multi-planned services to South Africa, India, and Australia, and existing flying boat production capacity in Great Britain is stretched by Imperial Airways orders, and by urgent requirements of the Air Force.

Proposals are afoot for the building under licence in this country of one or two American flying boat designs, and these proposals have been stimulated by the excellent performances as to speed and range of these types.

THE NEW PLANES
It is important, however, to consider that the new British boats now under construction will be comparable in performance with the American, and will be more particularly suited to our needs. If a special trans-Atlantic type is required the British designer could produce it. In point of fact, the design of very big flying boats may nowadays be said almost to be standardised.

Clearly, there is a very strong case in favour of adopting a British design. It would be ready for use quite as soon as a foreign type made here under licence; and it is difficult to see why foreign types should be adopted and built here for this particular occasion, and with not very clear prospects after the occasion passed.

If a private concern, however, were to be ready to run a trans-Atlantic service before Imperial Airways, it may well be asked whether the Post Office would give it a mails contract? The answer is fairly obvious. The Post Office would, naturally, only give a mails contract to a Government-subsidised concern, and it is evident that Imperial Airways will be subsidised for an Atlantic service.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

(Christian Science)

Subject: God The Only Cause and Creator.

This will be the subject of the lesson sermon in all churches of Christ-Scientists, To-morrow, December 8, 1935.

The Golden Text will be: The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength, wherewith he hath girded himself; that it cannot be moved. —(Psalms 93: 1)

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "Sing, O ye heavens; for the Lord hath done it; shout, ye lower parts of the earth: break forth into singing, ye mountains, O forest, and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himself in Israel. Thus saith the Lord, thy Redeemer, and he that formed thee from the womb, I am the Lord that maketh all things; that stretcheth forth the heavens alone; that spreadeth abroad the earth by myself." —(Isaiah 23: 24.)

The lesson sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"In Science man is the offspring of spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. Mortals can never understand God's creation while believing that man is a creature. God's children already created will be cognized only as man finds the truth of being. Thus it is that the real, ideal man appears in proportion as the false and material disappears. No longer to marry or to be 'given in marriage' neither closes man's continuity nor his sense of increasing number in God's infinite plan. Spiritually, to understand that there is but one creator, God, unfold all creation, confirms the Scriptures, brings the sweet assurance of no parting, no pain, and of man deathless and perfect and eternal." —(Page 63 and 69)

COCOS ISLAND STAMPS

To Be Issued Next Month By Costa
Rica

Costa Rica has a surprise in store for stamp collectors. It is about to provide its romantic "colony" of Cocos Island with a full series of postage stamps.

Cocos is the treasure island which was lured a succession of seekers after the wealth supposed to have been buried there by pirates and buccaneers. Until last year the place was regarded as a kind of "No-Man's Land," but the British expedition of last summer, financed by a $275,000 company, got a shock when Costa Rica sent troops to evict them from the island.

The ostensible purpose in issuing the stamps is to make it clear to the world that Cocos Island belongs to Costa Rica. For many a day the bulk of the postal traffic will be "philatelic," and already arrangements have been made to send "first-day covers"—envelopes posted on the first day of the issue—to many thousands of collectors. The stamps are due to appear next month.

FIRE CAUSED BY WATER JUG.

Budapest, Nov. 7.
The October heat-wave, which is a traditional feature of the Hungarian climate, was nearly responsible for the destruction of the Szeged town-hall by fire last week.

In an empty room of the Tourist Agency, which has its offices in the town-hall, a glass water-jug was turned into a lens by the sun, which set fire to a piece of paper lying beside the jug.

The blaze spread over the pamphlets and advertisements on the table and to other parts of the room before it was discovered.

Baby's Nannie advised me to use this Talcum Powder

"One day I came home hot and tired after four strenuous sets of tennis—my skin felt hot and prickly all over. Nannie had just finished Baby's evening toilet, and as I was going in to the bathroom, she offered me baby's tin of Cuticura Talcum. I've never known anything so soothing—it is the finest talcum powder I've ever known—after strenuous exercise I ask for no better pick-me-up than a bath finished off with this talcum. The perfume alone made me love it at once—such a delicate, sweet fragrance."

It is because of its fineness and absolute purity that Cuticura Talcum is recommended by doctors and nurses for a baby's sensitive skin. And this is the reason why women find it a joy to use after bathing—or whenever the skin is chafed and feels tender. No other powder is so satiny smooth—it is like a cooling balm on a hot skin. And its sweet, refreshing fragrance perfumes the whole body long afterwards.

Buy a tin today. It is invaluable for every member of the family.

Sold by all Chemists and Stores.

Sample of Cuticura Talcum, Soap and Ointment sent on receipt of 25 cts. Address: Muller & Phipps (Asia) Ltd., P.O. Box 25, HONG KONG.

ROME REPORT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Rome, Dec. 5.

The native Army Corps have now succeeded in reaching Caccamo in Tembien district, according to the 56th official bulletin, which adds that a considerable number of out-post actions were fought on the Dolo-Makale front, Abyssinian detachments being routed near Dolo on south west Makale. Other enemy troops are stated to have been dispersed on the further side of the Takaze River, south of Addi Rasti, four Italian soldiers having been killed in this action. Some of the headmen of Dedjak Kassa Sebbat made their submission near Asbi, to the officer commanding the Danakil column. Marshal Debono arrived here on Thursday, afternoon from Eritrea. On Friday, the ex-Commander of the East African Forces will visit Signor Mussolini in order to make his report.

"Car 99" is based on true incidents in the experience of this Transocean Kuo Min.

Wins The Plaudits
At The Star

"Crusades" one of the finest pictures ever brought to the screen, surpassing even the magnificent spectacles of "Ben Hur" and "I.N.R.I." began its initial run at the Star Theatre yesterday. Cecil B. DeMille, the master showman of Hollywood scored another triumph and has unquestionably created a picture that will live in the memory of all for many a day to come. The splendour and lavishness of the court of Saladin, the horror of the slave market, the giant war catapults and war galleys under full sail are only a few of the spectacles brought to vivid life to the spectators.

Heading the cast of 10,000 are Henry Wilcoxon who had one of the most amazing roles of his career as Richard the Lion-Hearted and Loretta Young who attained new heights of popularity by her magnificent portrayal of the beautiful Berengaria.

It is capital entertainment, and strongly recommended to one and all.—F.H.J.

Laurel And Hardy
Again!

SEE THEIR LATEST
ESCAPADES AT THE
KING'S AND ALHAMBRA

Showing at the King's and Alhambra Theatres to-day is the new full length Laurel and Hardy comedy. In the film are two Americans who escape from prison and go to Scotland on a cattle boat, to claim a legacy left by a relative to Stan Laurel.

All that he gets is a snuff-box and a set of bag pipes. They are stranded, enlist and eventually are drafted to India with the Caledonian Highlanders.

There in India the boys of the regiment play up to their new roles as MacLaurel and MacHardy. And with what fun! June Lang the girl who really inherits the MacLaurel's and MacHardy's money is in India also and is engaged to the Colonel of the Regiment, played by Janney.

The most amazing passage of the whole film is Laurel's idea of marching, which puts the entire regiment out of step.

It is a picture not to be missed.

great criminal-hunting force, MacMurray portrays a young rookie encouraged by his pretty sweetheart to join the State police. He emerges from the rigorous training to prove himself a hero early in his career. But, in a clash with the State's most dangerous bandits, he loses his prisoners through carelessness and is broken as a result.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy in "Bonnie Scotland" coming on Saturday at the King's & Alhambra Theatres.

"BONNIE SCOTLAND"

Rose petals in the pathway of Laurel and Hardy, the unequalled pair of screen comedians! For nearly ten years under the banner of Hal Roach, the duo has delighted screen fans throughout the world with their inimitable antics. In their latest fulllength feature comedy, "Bonnie Scotland," showing to-day at the King's and Alhambra theatres.

The opening scenes show the pair in Scotland. Stanley MacLaurel, accompanied by his pompous friend, Oliver Hardy, has arrived in Scotland to claim the magnificent estate of his deceased uncle. So far as Stan is concerned, however, the estate consists of some valueless heirlooms for that is his share of the legacy. Then the boys, through a misadventure, find they have signed themselves into the Scottish Highlanders. They are sent to India in His Majesty's Service. There they are called upon to impersonate two commanding officers in an effort to save the fort. As in all good stories, their ruse is effective but not until after they have experienced some hazardous adventures.

"THE GIRL FROM 10th AVENUE"

"One cannot play even Hamlet without having a sense of comedy!" That's the surprising declaration of one of the screen's most popular comedienne, whose years on both stage and screen entitles her to the voice of authority. She is Alison Skipworth, who has a leading role in "The Girl From 10th Avenue," which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre.

"Hamlet was so crazy that no actor can play him without being able to laugh at the type and character," she explained. "Otherwise he would go mad himself."

SIR HARWOOD'S NEW POST

King's Financial Secretary

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Nov. 16.

It was officially announced from Buckingham Palace yesterday that the posts of Treasurer and Deputy Treasurer to the King have been abolished. A new office of Financial Secretary to the King has been created and will be filled by Sir Ralph Harwood, formerly Deputy Treasurer.

This is part of the reorganization of certain posts in the Royal Household which His Majesty has ordered, following the death of Lord Sysonby, Treasurer to the King and Keeper of the Privy Purse.

Sir Ralph Harwood, who has been Deputy Treasurer to the King since 1922, was responsible, in the 1931 crisis, for a scheme to effect economies in the household expenses of Buckingham Palace. Addressing a meeting of servants, he announced that the King had decided to reduce his Civil List income by £50,000. He said that his Majesty had stated that he would not have the wages of his servants reduced or allow any dismissals in the Palace staff.

ECONOMIES EFFECTED

The employees co-operated in Sir Ralph's scheme to reduce expenses so wholeheartedly that

HOCKEY

Mule Corps-Indian
Police In Mamak
Tourney

At the Police Training School yesterday, the Mule Corps surprised even their most optimistic supporters by defeating the Indian Police in their Mamak encounter by one goal to nil scored in the first half by Rahamat Ullah.

The general display of hockey was very poor both teams being far below their usual form, and the score was a fair reflection of the game.

In the first half the Police had the misfortune of having one of their men sent off the field for committing a deliberate foul, but this disadvantage was relieved when on the second half the visitors too had one of their men ordered off the field.

MULE CORPS SCORE

From the first whistle the Mule Corps attacked strongly but they were kept in check by the Police defence. After some play in midfield, the visitors scored when the forwards executed a pretty movement which carried them within shooting distance and allowed Rahamat Ullah to give them the lead, which they retained till the whistle ended the first half.

At the resumption, the Police took the offensive, but they found the defence on their mettle especially Dicks who was playing a great spooling game at the pivotal position.

The Police attack seemed to lose their sting after this and the ball was kept in midfield and this is where the Mule Corps man was dismissed.

For the losers Teja Singh at right wing was very fast and tricky but many solo efforts and centres were wasted for there was no one there to receive them.

FRIENDLY MATCH

In a friendly hockey game at King's Park yesterday, the Club second string trounced the 9th Battery to the tune of five goals to one.

The home team had the measure of the visitors from the start and the issue of the game was never in doubt.

For the winners E. G. Dale at centre half gave the most impressive display, while Bmdr. Nicol was the outstanding forwards of the visitors.

The goal scorers were, Senior 3, Taylor 1, and Kilby 1, and Bmdr. Nicol scored the visitors' only goal.

many important economies were effected.

The other changes in the Royal Household, also announced in the "London Gazette" last night, were as follows:

The offices of Private Secretary to the King and Keeper of his Majesty's Privy Purse are to be amalgamated. They will be held by Lord Wigram, the present Private Secretary to the King.

The appointment is made of an Assistant Keeper of the Privy Purse, who will be one of his Majesty's Assistant Private Secretaries. Major the Hon. Alexander Hardinge will occupy this position.

An additional Assistant Private Secretary is also appointed to his Majesty's Household. He is Mr. Alan Frederick Lascelles, who was Private Secretary to the Prince of Wales from 1920 to 1929 and Secretary to the Governor-General of Canada from 1931. Mr. Frank Herbert Mitchell is the other Assistant Private Secretary to the King. He has held this office for four years.

COUPLE WHO HAVE MARRIED OFTEN

Still Happy Though Wedded
Nine Times

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilding, of Spring Gardens, Preston, have—between them—a total of nine marriages.

He is seventy-nine, has had five wives. She is a year younger, and has been married four times.

They live on £1 a week—their old-age pensions. Neither has ever been divorced.

Mr. Wilding said to a "Sunday Express" representative, "I first married when I was twenty-one."

"That was Marjory. She died four years later."

Then came Margaret, followed by Elizabeth and Mary, and now I have Caroline."

"When my fourth wife was living, a friend asked me: 'Which wife has been the best?'"

"I replied, 'The first was a good one, the second was a good one, and the third was a good one. This is my fourth, and she is the best because she is still here.'"

"If they asked me that now I would answer in the same way."

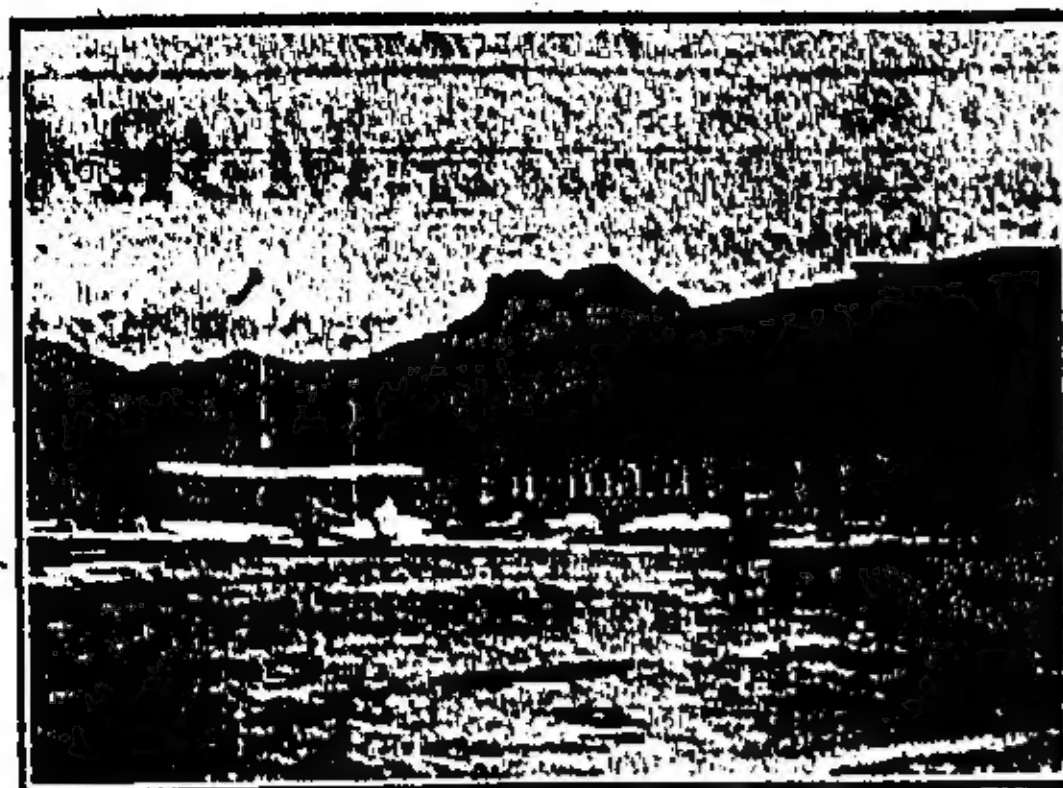

Mrs. Wilding said she had had good husbands and bad husbands, but she never had to leave one of them.

She added: "Once, when I was young, a fortune-teller read my hand and said I would be married four or five times. I laughed, but she wasn't far wrong."

Between them Mr. and Mrs. Wilding have had sixteen children.

Yvanovich, Christina Chow and Nydia Osmond were also in the 'highlight' as Duncan, King, of Scotland, Macduff and Fiesance, son of Banquo respectively.

Last but not the least were the three witches played by Misses Ruby Moy and Bel's and Katy Marr.—J. H. F.

"TABLETS" SWENSON

AN INGRATE PUNISHED

Man Who Strikes His Grandmother

Ho Yau, a 30 year old coolie was charged before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy with having assaulted his 74 year old grandmother, Lo Wah, widow on board boat No. 656V at Yaumat, on Thursday.

Defendant, on being charged,
stated he had asked complainant to collect some money, due to him as coolie hire, but she had refused and accused defendant of having already collected it and given it away. "She also refused to boil some rice for me," added defendant.

Inspector Shannon: I have warned defendant since he was a small boy of six or seven years of age. The old lady has done well by him; she has looked after him for years. She has given him everything he wanted, but this time she apparently could not give him something he had asked for, so he picked up a brick and threw it at her. It struck her on the hand.

Complainant: In the afternoon
he emptied a pot of rice into the harbour, and later he threw this (pointing to a brick in Court) at me and hit me on the hand. He also threatened to kill me.

His Worship (to defendant):
This old lady has brought you up and fed you, and this is the way you treat her. I am not going to give you the option of a fine; you will go to gaol for this. Six weeks —and don't you let me hear any more of this.

As he was being led from the dock, defendant shouted fiercely to his grandmother, "You had better collect that money!" He was immediately called back by the Magistrate and was sentenced to a further two weeks' hard labour.

The Magistrate (to Inspector Shannon): You had better keep an eye on him when he is allowed out.

JAIL TERM FOR CONSTABLE

Hillside Assault On Woman

The case in which an Indian constable of the Police Force, was charged with indecent assault on a Chinese woman, came to a conclusion at the Central Magistracy yesterday when Mr. Q. A. A. Mac-fadyen convicted Boor Din, of the offence and sentenced him to 6 months imprisonment.

The alleged offence on Lam Ho, Chinese woman, was stated to have taken place on the hillside off
Wanchai Gap Road, on November 4.
Mr. W. Le Bart Sparrow, Assistant Superintendent of the Police prosecuted, and stated that defendant had been in the force for nine years and had a fairly good record.

Mr. Hin Shing Lo, who appeared for the defence, submitted that the complainant was a consenting party.

FINE ARTS EXHIBITION

Galaxy Of Beautiful
Paintings

Lovers of fine arts will find much to satisfy their sense of aesthetics in the temporary gallery which has been opened on the 6th floor of China Building.
In this spacious and well decorated room an exhibition of Chinese paintings is being held and will be continued on till December 15th. The exhibition is held under the aegis of the Chinese Fine Arts Club, and although the door was thrown open to the public for the first time yesterday, there was an unceasing throng of interested connoisseurs from the morning until closing time, which is 8 p.m. daily.
Altogether there are 120 paintings on exhibition, and according to the prices asked for each one,
the total value is said to be well
in excess of $3,000.

works for special mention would be

ALLEGED BRIBE TO INSPECTOR

Further Evidence
Heard In Clark's Case

"I took the envelope out of my pocket and put it on the table," said Po Wa, a stall-holder of the Lockhart Road market, in evidence against Thomas Storey Clark, Second Class Sanitary Inspector, who appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday on an adjourned summons for having accepted a bribe of $81 from Yu Lap, between May 1 and July 15, this year. "Yu Lap then picked it up and handed it to the Inspector who thanked him for it,"
he added. "Did the Inspector open the envelope, while you were there," asked Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, who appeared for the prosecution.
"No he did not," replied witness.
"Were there any further demands to wash your stall between 8 and 9 o'clock, after receiving the present?"

"No. But he (defendant) came between 9 and 10 and asked me if the new bours were suitable, and I replied that they were as the business rush hours were over."
Allegations made in evidence at the previous hearing of defendant's insistence that the stallholders of the market in question, should wash their stalls at all sorts of unreasonable hours, notably between 8-10 a.m. when business was at its height, was further substantiated by Po Wa, yesterday in the witness box who said that
"it was very troublesome."

TO PLACATE HIM

Defendant was so insistent in his demands that the stall-holders decided to placate him by a gift of money. Accordingly they held a consultation, and the money, amounting to $81 was raised. "I took part and asked the inspector to give us permission to wash our stalls sometime after 10 a.m. when the business rush was over. The Inspector gave his permission."
"What was the usual time, in former years for cleaning the stalls?" "Sometime after 10 or 11 a.m." Witness agreed with the prosecutor, that he was merely resorting to the usual practice before the trouble began. "The whole market people expressed their thanks for the change, and we proposed to do something to thank him for his kindness" continued witness. "The first proposal was to buy a gift but nobody knew how to make the necessary arrangements. So we finally decided to give $3 from each stall. My stall paid the necessary sum to Au Shing."

Witness, continuing, stated that he had not at anytime previously received any money, but that the next day after the collection was made he met Chan Fook in the street before he reached the market. "The latter informed witness that he was taking the money to the Inspector, and asked witness and Yu Lap to take it instead."

MONEY IN ENVELOPE

"Chan Fook handed me an envelope containing money which I placed in my pocket, after first examining it. The envelope contained one $50, three $10 notes and a single $1 note."

Witness then stated that he and Yu Lap went by tram to Happy Valley to a street, with which he was not acquainted. "Yu Lap showed him the way, and on the door of a house he saw a brass plate on which was written in Chinese characters 'kei lik pong pan' (Inspector Clark). On entering he saw defendant, who motioned him to sit down. He did not say anything, but Yu Lap told defendant that the market people were thankful and had therefore made him a small present."

Under cross-examination by Mr.
C. K. Hall Brutton, who appeared for defendant, witness stated that he had held a stall in the market for the past four years.

After further evidence had been taken the case was again adjourned until Tuesday next.

invidious, and would not be fair to the artists concerned, as each one of them has shown remarkable technique in their respective line of creation, but suffice it to say that the collective work is of a very high standard and bears evidence of unusual skill. The blending of colours, shading, and the true-to-life expressions of the subjects bear out the fact that none of the exhibits came from the brush of an amateur artist.
I strongly recommend lovers of fine arts to pay a visit.—S. McN.

LORRY DRIVER FINED

Traffic Island
Damaged

A fine of $25 was imposed on Kwok Kam Cheung driver of lorry
No. 1692 by Mr. W. Schofield yesterday at the Central Magistracy, after he had been convicted of driving without due care and caution in Hennessy Road on November 21.

For the prosecution, Traffic
Sergeant Brittain stated that on November 21 at about 4 p.m. defendant was driving along Hennessy Road from west to east going towards Shaaukwan. Near Tin Lok Lane he ran into the traffic refuge causing damage to both the refuge and the lorry.

MAN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Alleged Possession
Of Pistol

Committal proceedings were commenced at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when Tam Tai, 37, fisherman, appeared before Mr. E.
I. Wynne-Jones, on a charge of being in possession of an automatic pistol and 100 rounds of ammunition without a permit.

Detective Sub-Inspector Cunningham in outlining the case said that as a result of information received, two detectives were sent out at 11.30 on the 3rd of December. They took a bus, and on reaching the Jordan Road's stop, they saw the defendant in a rickshaw. They got off and stopped him and found some package around his waist. He was taken to the Revenue Office where he was searched, and the articles were found on his person.

Revenue Officer P. J. O'Neill said that 11.55 on December 3 defendant was brought to him by the first witness. He felt a bulge around defendant's waist in front of his trousers. On searching him he found a black girdle and a parcel containing 4 boxes of ammunition and one magazine, and also an automatic pistol.

Defendant made a statement from the dock saying that he had been given the pistol by a man to take to Mong Kok, and later another man told him to take it to Shamshuipo. He was arrested when he was carrying the parcel.

WOLFRAM ORE
CASEJudgment to be Given
Next Week

The claim for $88,500 made by the Ying Wah Co., against Messrs. Bodiker & Co., before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, came to a conclusion yesterday after a protracted hearing. Judgment was reserved until Tuesday morning.

Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., instructed by Mr. E. S. C. Brooks, appeared for the plaintiff firm, and Mr. Jenkin, together with Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jr., instructed by Mr. J. T. Prior, was for the defence.

The case for the plaintiff was that the defendants wrongfully converted half of the wolfram ore stored in their place as security for a loan of $97,440, and that they took advantage of the property, gambled in exchange, and put the difference in their pockets.

The defence contended that the conversion was made in accordance with an oral agreement, whereby they had the right to do so.

Mr. Jenkin opened his address by expressing the hope that whatever His Lordship found in the case he would not associate himself with the word "dishonest," a term which had been frequently applied by counsel for the plaintiffs in his cross-examination of the witnesses for the defence.

Mr. Jenkin then went on to say that he would not touch on the general facts at all, but would confine himself to the alternative claim. The grounds on which the alternative claim were based had not been established or put forward.

NOT A QUESTION OF TRUST

Mr. Potter in addressing the Court said that he agreed with Mr. Jenkin in deprecating the use of the word "dishonest" but he was forced to do so when the case turned on those lines. It was remarkable that witness, who was a business man should come to the Court and say that he believed it was honest to pledge goods for $81 when he got them for $58.

Mr. Potter said that anyone reading from the correspondence could not fail to see that the goods belonged to the defendants. The Bank had come to that conclusion and had advanced them the money accordingly. If the Bank had known that the goods were in pledge with the defendant they would not have done such a thing without first obtaining the consent of the plaintiffs. Mr. Potter then went on and referred to other aspects of the case and concluded by submitting that the defendants had failed to discharge their onus to prove that the written agreement had been substituted by an oral one and that the goods were shipped without the knowledge of the plaintiffs.

Judgment was then accordingly reserved.

HEROIN PILLS
FOUNDChinese Charged For Possession

Resulting from raids carried out by Revenue Officers, Yi Chung and Chan Kwok San were charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday with the possession of heroin pills.

Mr. Eih-shing Lo, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, appeared for the first defendant, and tendered a plea of not guilty. Second defendant admitted both charges.

Bail of $5,000 was allowed in the case of the second defendant, while the first was discharged.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Lucy Miller and
Mrs. Collaco

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of Mrs. Lucy Miller, widow of the late Mr. Andrew W. Miller, which occurred at the French Hospital on Thursday, after a long illness.

The late Mr. Miller will be remembered by older residents. He was employed at Talkoo, and also with Messrs. Leigh and Orange, and later was in business for himself, as a building contractor.

The late Mr. Miller died a few years ago, since when his widow had been living with her son, Mr. George Miller at Wongmehong, Happy Valley.

The deceased lady, who was 61 years of age, leaves her son, who is an engineer on one of the coastal steamers, his wife and two grandchildren to mourn her death, and to whom the deepest sympathy is extended.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral took place yesterday evening at the Colonial Cemetery, Happy Valley, and Rev. Tso Sze Fong of the St. Paul's Church conducted the services at the graveside.

The chief mourners at the funeral were her son, daughter-in-law, and her two grandchildren, and among the large gathering present to pay their last respects were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Allen, Mr. W. Allen, Captain Walker, Messrs. W. L. Cunningham, F. J. Neves, J. A. Kent, W. H. Peters, Thomas Lay, R. M. Omar, A. L. Cunningham, H. Burns, G. P. Ladd, F. A. Peterson, Mrs. Leach, Mrs. G. E. Bell, Mrs. Mow Fung, Miss L. M. de Souza, Members of the St. Paul's Church and the St. Mary's Church and a large gathering of Chinese relatives and friends.

FLORAL TRIBUTES

Wreaths were sent by her son, daughter-in-law and grand children, Mary, Bonny and Babes, Lily and family, Rev. and Mrs. Cyril Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Neves, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Coates, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. P. Guest, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lay, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Lo, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lang and family, Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Lam, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cheng, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Wong and Mr. and Mrs. Wong Pak Sing.

Dr. Li Sung, Messrs. A. L. Cunningham, D. Blackwell, W. Allen, H. Burns, G. P. Ladd, F. A. Peterson, R. H. Randall, Wong Choi Yue, Kan Tai Choi, Ng Chik Pak, So Wah, Poon Sai Yin, Hung Hing Kam and Ko Ah Kam.

Mrs. J. Wells, Mrs. G. E. Bell and family, Mrs. Jane Marsh, Mrs. Linblom and family, Mrs. Booker, Mrs. Anne Leong and family, Mrs. U. P. Cheung, Mrs. Thomas Tam, Mrs. She Tai Shi, Mrs. Kwok Hoo, Mrs. Lam Miu King, Mrs. Tai Hang To and Mrs. Tai Tu Kul.

Miss F. M. June and family, Miss L. M. de Souza, the Staff and members of the Industrial Home for Blind Girls, Staff and members of the St. Mary's Church, the Staff and members of the Y.W.C.A. and many others.

MRS. D. J. P. COLLACO

The funeral of the late Mrs. Dorothea Jose Pintos (Chay) Collaco, who died after a long illness at her residence, Homunin, Kowloon on Thursday at the age of 58 years, took place at the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Happy Valley yesterday evening. Rev. Father N. Maestrini of the Roman Catholic Church officiated both at the Chapel and at the graveside.

The principal mourners at the funeral were the deceased's husband, her son and four daughters.

There was also a small gathering of relatives and friends present at the funeral and among those were Messrs. E. L. Barros, S. E. Carvalho, M. J. Rull, C. Mendes, A. Azevedo, L. Neves, and others.

No flowers were sent by request, but a few family wreaths were laid on the grave.

gathering of interested first aid workers.

The lecturer dealt extensively on liquid foods and stressed the importance of paying strict attention to the doctor's orders, and to use the best and freshest materials obtainable. Food must be given punctually and at regular intervals.

Mrs. Whyte-Smith then went on explaining the right way to prepare such liquid food as barley water, albumen water, gruel and beef tea.

CORRESPONDENCE

HOCKEY SELECTION

[The Editor, of the "Hong Kong Daily Press"]

Sir,—I see from your issue of yesterday that among the players selected for a trial hockey game in preparation for the annual match between the Combined Services and Civilians, three members of the St. Andrew's outfit have been included.

This is, to my mind, rather extraordinary. The St. Andrew's squad, as is generally known, has not taken part in any engagement yet this season, and has not even taken the trouble to make arrangements to fulfil their fixtures in the Mamak Tournament.

Before making their final selection, the selectors would do well to bear in mind that there are at least two other players deserving of attention. They are Farmer (O.B.A. and Y.M.C.A.) and Nolasco Silva (Argonauts).—Yours etc.

CHAIN LETTER

Hong Kong Dec. 6.

Sir,—I received a chain-letter yesterday. It may be a joke, but I dare say it is in very bad taste. What I strongly object to is the "dire threats" held out in the latter half of the letter. Perhaps you will be kind enough to give it publicity and invite opinions on it. The letter is herewith attached.

GOD IS ALMIGHTY

God is almighty, God is our health, wealth and happiness. Trust in Him and He will never fail. Good luck and good health, continue this chain.

Make nine (9) copies and send to nine (9) persons of the most intelligent of your friends whom you wish happiness. The chain was started in Flanders by a General in the American Artillery, and it must go round (3) times forward if possible, within 34 hours.

Don't break this chain, it might bring bad luck. During the (9) following days after you have sent the copies count the days; a happy event is going to take place and fill you with joy. These predictions are always true.

If you take it as a joke and do not send the copies correctly bad luck will fall on you.

Mr. Seres of Victoria on the 8th day won a big prize of 20,000 gold lire. Mr. Williams's house was destroyed on the 8th day, owing to not taking the serious notice of the chain.

Mrs. Miles of Lisbon lost her baby son 3 days after receiving the chain without forwarding copies. Mrs. Vauseh won a $25,000 lottery. Pola Negri won her fortune by carrying out these instructions in the most conscientious way.

The man who sends this, is going to have good luck within 8 days from to-day.

Praise to God the Giver of all things.

Good Wishes.

"A FRIEND."

I think people who play this trick on their friends are still in their infancy. And in these hard times, when one has to struggle for one's living, the time wasted on such little pranks could have been better applied.—Yours etc.

DISGUSTED

INDIAN DRIVER
AND EMPLOYER

In Court Action

A claim for $60 for wages due by Mohan Din, an Indian chauffeur against Madame J. Masseboeur was again adjourned after yesterday's hearing in order that expert evidence could be called to testify to the damages done to the car.

The case was heard before the Pui-mee Judge, Mr. Justice E. E. Lindell.

Mr. G. S. Ford, of Messrs. Wilkinsons and Grist, appeared for the defendant, having been instructed the same day, whilst Mr. M. A. da Silva represented the chauffeur.

Madame Masseboeur repeated in the box to-day that she dismissed Din because he was constantly unpunctual and "looked insulting" when he was driving. She withheld his wages for some time because she thought he was responsible for the car receiving damage which cost over $70 to repair and

SEVEN YEARS FOR CLERKCry Of "My Wife!" From
The Dock: Plot To Pervert Justice

Moaning "My God! My wife!" James Thompson, 30, solicitor's clerk, Hollins Lane, Ho., near Oldham, was carried out of the dock at Chester Assizes recently.

He had collapsed on being sentenced to seven years' penal servitude for conspiracy to pervert the course of justice, and receiving £3,785 in notes, knowing it to have been stolen.

Thompson was one of six persons who stood in the dock on charges, varying from perjury to the receipt of stolen money, preferred against them individually.

A remarkable story was told, during the hearing, of banknotes worth about £7,000. It was stated they had first been stolen, then hidden in a jam jar on a grave, and some subsequently torn up and put down a drain.

Among the charges against Thompson were that of suborning William Parkinson and Violet Boothby to commit perjury at Chester Assizes; conspiring with Parkinson and Boothby to pervert the course of justice; and "receiving" £3,875 in Bank of England notes, the money of George Wilkinson.

He pleaded guilty to all the charges against him except four of attempted subornation. No evidence was offered on these and, in respect of them, a verdict of not guilty was returned.

OTHER SENTENCES

Wm. Parkinson, 32, motor dealer, and Violet Boothby, 33, clerk, were charged with conspiring to obstruct the course of justice and making false statements as witnesses. Parkinson was sentenced to three years' penal servitude, to run concurrently with a sentence he is at present serving, and Mrs. Boothby to 18 months' hard labour, to run concurrently with her present sentence.

Sentence of six months in the second division was passed on Frank Mella, 26, motor driver, Willow Bank, Staining, Blackpool, accused of receiving sums of £3,050 and £400 in Bank of England notes, the money of George Wilkinson, knowing it to have been stolen; Nancy Mella, 23, his wife, charged with receiving £3,365 in Bank of England notes, the money of George Wilkinson; and Samuel Swindells, 60, baker, Barclay Avenue, Blackpool, Mrs. Mella's father, accused of receiving £115 in Bank of England notes, the money of George Wilkinson, were bound over.

NOTES PLACED ON GRAVE

Mr. J. P. Eldon, prosecuting, said the notes were stolen last March from the house of Mr. George Wilkinson, bookmaker, Northwich. The notes were taken to London presumably by Violet Boothby—one of the women prisoners—placed in a jam jar on a grave in a North Finchley cemetery; recovered by Thompson, and £3,450 given to Frank Mella, another prisoner, in trust for his brother John.

Parkinson had been arrested, and Boothby had surrendered to the police. It was alleged that an arrangement was made whereby John should take the blame for the offence at Northwich and he would be given the money on completing the sentence he would receive.

Later Frank Mella's wife, who had been warned that the notes were stolen, found them, tore some of them up and put them down a drain, where portions were recovered.

Almost from the moment that Thompson was entrusted by his employers with the defence of Parkinson and Boothby he started to build up a defence of alibi. The case against Parkinson, Boothby and John Mella was tried at Chester Assizes, and Thompson was arrested in court during the hearing.

Supt. Frederick Platt said Thompson was a married man and was waiting for her friend, Mr. Pittendrigh, to hand the wages over and 'deal' with him. She denied that she dismissed Din because he had refused to accept a cut to help pay for the damage.

Mr. W. Pittendrigh gave similar evidence, but added that he formed the opinion that if Din had agreed to pay something towards the damage, Madame Masseboeur would have given him another chance.

with three children. He had not been previously convicted. Parkinson was at present serving a sentence of ten years penal servitude and Boothby one of five years in respect of the Northwich safe robbery.

Mr. Francis Williams, for Thompson, said his father had a record of fifteen years in the Salvation Army, and Thompson himself had been actively connected with it.

WIFE'S FLEA

Counsel read a letter from Thompson's wife, one passage in which was:

"If he was really bad I would not trouble to plead with you for leniency on his part, but I assure you he has always been an ideal husband and father—teetotal, kind and thoughtful—and always his home came first, his one failing being rather weakwilled and easily led, and it is that one failing which has got him into this trouble."

Counsel said Thompson had told him strong pressure was brought to bear upon him before he would agree to go and look for the money.

Each of the six accused was asked if he or she had anything to say before the judge passed sentence.

Thompson, who sobbed bitterly, said: "I am terribly sorry for what I have done. Will you give me a chance, please? My wife and children—their hardships are harder than mine. I did not fully appreciate the wrong I was doing. There will never be any repetition, please give me a chance."

Addressing Thompson, the judge said: "You are an experienced solicitor's clerk. You have entered into an elaborate conspiracy for the purpose of perverting the course of justice. I am prepared to believe that Parkinson may have been the originator of the ideas which were carried out in that conspiracy."

"You were a member of the legal profession—at any rate, employed by a member of the legal profession—and without your expert knowledge and experience Parkinson would not have been able to carry out the plot which he may have evolved. I take into account the temptation into which you may have been thrown by being consulted by people who had these large sums of money."

HU HAN MIN'S VIEWS

Shanghai, Dec. 5. A report was received here today from Mr. Hu Han-min in Nice, Southern France, saying that he will soon return to China apparently to become President of the Executive Yuan.

Mr. Hu is said to have stated that he will first proceed to Hong Kong where he will meet South-west leaders. After a conference in that Colony, Mr. Hu will finally decide whether he will go to Nanking or not.

According to report from Nice, Mr. Hu is said to be disappointed by the League of Nations' failure in restraining Japanese aggressions in China, while Geneva does not hesitate to adopt sanctions against Italy.

"Co-operation with any foreign power must be based on equality and reciprocity," Mr. Hu added. "There is no equality in the present dealings with Japan."

Asked what he thinks about economic co-operation with England and America, Mr. Hu was non-committal. [Union News]

EXPLOITING FOR COAL

(From Our Special Correspondent) Canton, Dec. 5. Coal mines in Chiu Yai Tung and Yang Mui Shan on the Kwangtung-Yunnan borders are to be exploited by the Kwangtung Provincial Government. The first mine is to be operated jointly by government and private enterprises, while the latter mine is to be opened strictly as a government concern.

Consent to open these mines was obtained from General Ho Chen, Chairman of the Hunan provincial government. At present Canton is buying coal from North China, India and Japan.

When the coal is mined, it will be sold by the Kwangtung Provincial Products Sales Office. This mineral is to be placed under planned economy, and its sales will be a government monopoly.

LOCAL CURRENCY MEASURES

The Ordinance to establish Government control of exchange in the Colony with a view to prevent undue fluctuation of the silver dollar, which was passed at one sitting of the Legislative Council on Thursday, did not come as a surprise to many. The trade of the Colony has been subservient to outside influence long enough, and the only surprise one could express is that why has not silver been nationalized before so much harm has been done to the trade of the Colony.

As the Hon. Attorney-General has said in moving the Bill for adoption, that it was hardly too much to say that if our exchange market was used only by the Hong Kong community, it might be possible to allow the currency to remain in the present anomalous position until conditions in other parts of the world became clearer. But that was, of course, not the case. The exchange market of the Colony was opened not only to those who have legitimate interests here, but also to any who might wish to make use of it. There was therefore a danger that the exchange value of the Hong Kong dollar might be subjected to wide fluctuations through the action of speculators outside the Colony, to the detriment of our own legitimate commercial and industrial interests.

The Hon. Attorney-General has very cleverly summed up the situation in regard to exchange and its adverse factors. And his knowledge was not only shared by himself, but by the Government. Therefore it is the more surprising that some such actions, as now adopted, should be so belated in coming. However, it is better late than never, and the step taken is, we feel confident, welcomed by all.

The new measures, if faithfully and resolutely carried out, will prove beneficial to the business men as well as to the wage earners, and will be a drastic antidote against the operations of speculators.

It is common knowledge that our currency is closely linked with that of China, and that the deflation of the Chinese dollar, as a result of the American silver policy, had gravely affected local industries. China's finances have also for a long time been in a more or less chaotic condition, and now with China divorced from silver, a scheme to manage the Colony's currency at once became imperative. And we are thankful that the local Government also realized the danger of the situation. The comprehensive character of the plan shows that it is the product of very careful preparation. Nevertheless every one acquainted with local conditions will understand that an uphill fight will have to be waged to secure its realization.

We believe, however, that the measures, as incorporated in the Ordinance just passed, will be ample to protect the exchanges, but it must not be assumed that there will be no deviation from the rates at present fixed; experience may show that some alteration is advisable or necessary.

MR. RIDDELL'S NEW POST

Ottawa, Dec. 5. It is announced that Mr. W. R. Ridell, the Canadian representative at Geneva, has been appointed to attend the International Labour Conference in Chile. His departure has no connection with his action on November 2 in suggesting an oil embargo against Italy, according to a statement by the acting Prime Minister.

The acting Premier states that Mr. Ridell was assigned to Chile a fortnight ago, before the Dominion Government's statement of December 1, in which Mr. Ridell's statement was declared to be a personal one and not official emanating from the Government.

The Government will immediately select an official to replace Mr. Ridell at Geneva. [Reuter]

NEW MINISTER WELCOMED

Gathering At Union Church Hall

The Rev. K. Mackenzie Dow, the newly appointed pastor of the Hong Kong Union Church, and Mrs. Mackenzie Dow, received a warm welcome last night, when members of the congregation gathered in the church hall, Kennedy Road.

There was a representative gathering of all denominations, prominent of whom were Bishop Hall, Rev. H. W. Baines, and the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. MacLean, newly appointed pastor of the Kowloon Union Church.

Mr. S. V. Boxer of the Union Church Council welcomed the new arrivals on behalf of the congregation, and expressed satisfaction that the church could now boast a pastor of its own. The church had, in similarity to its sister church in Kowloon, carried on for a while without a minister, but now those days were over.

The speaker said that he felt sure Mr. Mackenzie Dow could look forward to happy days ahead, and promised co-operation from the Church Council.

Rev. Mackenzie Dow in reply said that he was overwhelmed at the magnitude of the welcome. He was flattered and felt sure that these remarks, applied to his wife also. Reference was made to the Rev. MacLean, pastor of the Kowloon Union Church, whose welcome he had attended only last week. He was looking to a very successful ministry.

During the evening several speakers voiced their welcome to the new minister and his wife, and a pleasant function was brought to a close with the serving of light refreshments and tea.

NO OIL "WAR BUSINESS"

New York, Dec. 5. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has issued a statement to the effect that, with one unimportant exception, no Standard Oil interests have made shipments to Italy of what might be termed "war business."

The company has held that nothing should be done by any citizen to embarrass the efforts of the United States Government to avoid entanglement in the European political situation.

The company adds that when an extraordinary demand for oil for war operations developed, the Standard Oil Company, as a majority owner of an old-established domestic company in Italy, was in a favoured position and gets this expanded business, but did not take it. The company's total shipments to Italy so far, plus those to be made for the remainder of December, are actually less than the shipments in 1934. [Reuter]

COMMUNIST LEADER ARRESTED

Szawot, Dec. 5. It was disclosed today that gendarmes on November 27 arrested a notorious Communist leader named Chang Tin in a bookstore in Chi Ping Road. The Communist was the executive member of a secret Soviet organ in Chao Yang districts and conducted propaganda for his party.

Following his arrest, Chang divulged that another Communist organ was located in a log cabin at Wah Mou, a remote suburb. Six gendarmes in plain clothes were sent to raid that place and succeeded in rounding up four women Reds.

In a search in a house in Tung Po, two Mauser pistols, 60 rounds of ammunition and four gold bracelets were found. They are believed to be the property of the four female Communists. [Union News]

U.S. INTERESTS IN CHINA

Treaty Rights Must Be Protected

Washington, Dec. 5. Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, has given notice to the world that the United States does not look with equanimity upon the autonomy movement in North China. He calls upon all nations to respect existing treaties.

He does not mention Japan in his formal statement, but observers believe he was alluding to that power when he said:

"Whatever the origin or whatever the agents, the fact stands out that an effort is being made, and being resisted, to bring about a substantial change in the political status and condition of several of China's northern provinces."

"Unusual developments in any part of China are rightly and necessarily of concern not alone to the United States and the people of China but to all the many powers who have interests in China. For in their relations with China and in China's treaty rights and obligations of the treaty powers are in general identical."

"In the area under reference the interests of the United States are similar to those of other powers. The American Government therefore is closely observing what is happening there."

Mr. Hull added that in this period of world-wide political unrest and economic instability it was most important that Governments and peoples keep faith in their principles and pledges they had given.

Japanese activities are mentioned in a foreword to the statement, explaining Mr. Hull's remarks, which were issued in response to press inquiries.

The rumour of joint Anglo-American action in North China is still unconfirmed. [Reuter]

NEW REGIME IN CHINA

Autonomist Policy Outlined

Peking, Dec. 6. The foreign policy of the autonomous regime in the North China demilitarized zone was announced by Mr. Yin Ju Keng, chairman of the governing committee, in an interview at Tungchow, his capital, with foreign newspaper correspondents.

He is said to have asserted that there is some ground for the belief that the new regime was established as a result of Japanese political pressure. It was created also to meet a demand for a new administration whose chief concern would be the welfare and happiness of the people instead of profits for the leading politicians.

The new regime will welcome all who wish it progress, regardless of nationality, Mr. Yin continued. It will take care, moreover, not to violate the legal rights of the Powers in North China and will take every measure to safeguard the lives and property of foreigners.

He stated that no attempt will be made immediately to take over the Maritime Customs and the salt gabelle from the Nanking Government because of their delicate and complicated aspects.

Thus assurances were given by him that the new regime will by no means violate foreign rights in the area in the hope that it will mark a turn in the policy of China toward other countries.

The foreign correspondents seemed but a little relieved. [Union News]

DE BONO WELCOMED BACK

Rome, Dec. 5. Marshal de Bono, on his return from the Ethiopian front, was greeted by Signor Mussolini and a crowd of three thousand people on his arrival at the station, which was guarded by a double line of Black Shirts.

The platform was occupied by a large group of Fascist officials, including the President of the Senate and the Chamber and other notables. The Fascist Militia provided a guard of honour, while large numbers of the carabinieri were on parade. [Reuter]

Berlin, December 6. The passage in Sir Samuel Hoare's speech in the House of Commons on Thursday, in which he stated it to be the opinion of the German Government that little could be expected from the resumption of discussions concerning disarmament and especially concerning the reduction of air armaments so long as the Abyssinian conflict continues, calls forth a commentary from a semi-official German news agency, in which it is pointed out that Germany repeatedly stressed her willingness in principle to conclude an Air Pact.

The news agency goes on to point out that the programmatic points in Herr Hitler's speech of May 21, last year, which outlined Germany's position towards the disarmament question, still retain their validity including point seven which expresses Germany's consent to the Air Pact, as well as point eight in which the Reich Government declares its readiness at any time to apply to her own armaments those limitations that are accepted equally by those other powers. — Transocean Xua sin.

London, Dec. 5. In the House of Commons, Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, speaking on foreign affairs during the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, denied that there had been any change of foreign policy since the departure of Sir John Simon.

The Government, he said, had made a fresh attempt to discuss armament reduction with Herr Hitler, but he regretted that the present German view was that as long as the Ethiopian war continued, there was little to be gained by continuing the discussions. Sir Samuel declared that an Air Pact and a reduction in air armaments were urgently needed, and the Government would lose no opportunity in resuming the discussions on these issues, hoping to bring them to a successful termination.

Dealing with Colonial raw materials, Sir Samuel recalled his speech at Geneva, in which he admitted the anxiety of certain countries not possessing raw materials. He said he believed the problem was economic, not political, and added that the Government was ready for investigation in a calm and dispassionate atmosphere, but it could not discuss the matter with any hope of settlement in an atmosphere of war. LOCAL AND GENERAL

Three cases of diphtheria and one case of enteric fever were reported to the Health Authorities during the 24 hours ended on December 5.

The Social Committee of the Helena May Institute regrets that the pantomime advertised for December 12, 13 and 14 has had to be cancelled but hopes that a seasonable play may be arranged at an early date.

Local residents returning by the Empress of Japan from Vancouver on December 20 will be Mr. F. M. Hodgson, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seth.

A dinner dance will be held at the Repulse Bay Hotel to-day, and a tea dance to-morrow. Special extra bus service has been arranged for the convenience of the Patrons attending dinner dances; in addition to the ordinary Time Table: H.K.H. 8 p.m., 8.30 p.m., 9 p.m., and R.B.H. 1 a.m., 1.15 a.m., 1.30 a.m.

Captain R. C. B. Anderson, M.C., of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, is the new Adjutant of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps. He has recently taken over from Major E. J. R. Mitchell, who has been acting since Captain P. S. M. Wilkinson relinquished the appointment.

Yesterday marked the first day of Government control of Hong Kong currency, and the Bank's official rate on opening was 1s. 4d., a decline of a half-penny on Thursday's quotation. The control rate was 1s. 4d. Business was done on the opening at 1s. 4d., and then at 1s. 4.5/10d., with small business at the control rate. No marked variation in rates is now expected.

The British Museum has just acquired, through the generosity of Mr. Samuel Courtauld, Sir Michael Sadler, and an anonymous donor the series of 25 lithograph portraits by Edmund Kapp of distinguished statesmen and others interested in international peace, done since 1833 at Geneva.

A quiet wedding took place in Peking last week in the home of Mrs. Ingram, Teng Shih Kou, when Miss Margaret Ingrid Leir, daughter of Mr. Knut Leir and Mrs. Leir of Chicago, was married to the Rev. Stuart John Gunzel of Peking, who is in London for the making of the film of the life of Cecil Rhodes, attended the opening of the Motor Exhibition at Olympia, now ended. He was introduced to the Prince of Wales by an interpreter, and afterwards gave a Royal salute and expressed his great pleasure at having met the King's son.

The trustees of the Carnegie United Kingdom Trust have decided to make a grant of £5,000 to provide additional facilities at the proposed Institute of Leisure for unemployed young people at Wigan. The Institute of Leisure is claimed to be the first institution of its kind in Britain and is a completely new department in educational development. The estimated cost of the main part of the building will be from £20,000 to £25,000, and 75 per cent. of this will be paid by the Ministry of Labour.

Co-operative measures will be further discussed by the four commanders and representatives of various Government organs concerned at a meeting shortly.

ANGLO-FRENCH EFFORTS TO END ETHIOPIAN WAR

NEW PEACE PROPOSALS FORMULATED

Sir Samuel Hoare's Speech Impresses France

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891.
Received, December 6, 7:30 p.m.)

Paris, December 6.
Sir Samuel Hoare's speech on Thursday is declared by political circles here to be extraordinarily effective, firstly for the development of the diplomatic negotiations for a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian conflict, secondly by the references to the negotiations with Germany for its effect on the European situation, and thirdly for the fact that Sir Samuel Hoare and M. Laval are to meet on Saturday. What Sir Samuel Hoare had to say about the Italo-Abyssinian conflict is found to be satisfactory here, although it contained nothing sensational.
"Petit Journal" writes that the French public will receive this declaration with great gratification, all the more so because of the disappointment felt that no answer has yet been received from Italy in response to the latest promptings from France that it should clearly define its minimum demands. "Echo de Paris" writes that after the elections the British foreign office had changed its policy.
Several papers consider that Sir Samuel Hoare's speech should bring a relaxation of the tension because of the cordial nature of the appeal to Italy and Signor Mussolini. Numerous leading articles point out that the misunderstandings for which no justifiable reason existed have been disposed off effectively.

PEACE TERMS

Paris, Dec. 6.
"Figaro" learns from its London correspondent that the essentials of the Anglo-French peace proposals are:

1. Part of the province of Tigre and the towns of Adowa and Adigrat, and probably also Makale, should be ceded to Italian Eritrea, while Akum remains Abyssinian.
2. The province of Ogaden becomes Italian.
3. Abyssinia should grant Italy facilities for an economic settlement near Bari, this territory to come under a special administration but remain under the sovereignty of the Abyssinian Emperor.
4. Abyssinia to get "the corridor" in Eritrea to port Assab with the right to build a road and railway line through it.

SOME OPPOSITION

London, Dec. 6.
General approval was accorded in the House of Commons last night and is reflected in the newspapers to-day of the double line of policy which, as the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, stated the Government are steadily and consistently pursuing towards Italy.

This dualism which consists of taking full part in collective action under the Covenant and at the same time persevering in efforts for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, met with some Opposition Liberal criticism, but the Opposition Liberal speakers indicated general support of the Government.

SIR AUSTEN SUPPORTS

Sir Austen Chamberlain warmly welcomed Sir Samuel Hoare's appeal to Signor Mussolini and the former's determination to use the interval before the new sanctions for a great push for peace. He expressed particular satisfaction that the representatives of the Government had been foremost in all counsels at Geneva in consenting to maintain and enforce the authority of the League.

The League, he said, was a young body and this was the first time it has been confronted with a situation in which it could act and where it had acted. He was not discouraged because it worked slower than he could have wished.

BRITISH PEACE PROPOSAL

Paris, Dec. 5.
It is understood that the British Government has submitted, through Mr. Maurice Peterson, a Foreign Office expert, for the approval of the French Government, new peace proposals.

Three factors have hitherto prevented the proposals making much progress: 1, M. Pierre Laval's uncertain position; 2, the attitude of Italy; and 3, the disappointment in Paris following the British statement that the withdrawal of contingents of the Fleet from Gibraltar was not a friendly gesture to Italy but merely a routine movement, without political significance.

It is believed the French delay in replying to the British proposals is due to the fact that M. Laval feels they would not be acceptable to Signor Mussolini for the moment, and he is hoping that some modification in favour of Italy may follow Sir Samuel Hoare's visit to Paris.

It is learned in authoritative quarters that the British proposals suggest territorial agreements between Italy and Ethiopia which go no further than previous suggestions, but which are on a somewhat different basis and are therefore deemed more acceptable to Italy.

MR. EDEN'S HOPES

London, Dec. 5.
Mr. Anthony Eden, Minister for League Affairs, winding up the Foreign Affairs debate in the House of Commons, said the fact that fifty nations were willing to shoulder the unwelcome responsibility of sanctions constituted a remarkable testimony for their anxiety to see a new era prevail.

Mr. Eden believed that as collective security grew stronger it would be possible to reduce the level of armaments and if the League emerged stronger from the present dispute an opportunity which must not be missed would be created for seeking an agreement for reduction and limitation of armaments.
—Reuter.

ITALY NOT OPTIMISTIC

Rome, Dec. 5.
Italy can see no reason for optimism regarding the peace talks in European capitals. According to authoritative sources, it is the opinion of the Government that no new features have become apparent to justify this optimism.

The same circles deny any negotiations in this connection, and the work of the British and French experts who are seeking a peace formula is believed to be of a purely technical nature.

SPOKESMAN AT TOKYO

Deals With North China Issues

Tokyo, Dec. 6.
The Foreign Office spokesman considers that Sir Samuel Hoare's speech does not call for comment as it is merely a description of the recent developments in British relations with China.

He said that he failed to understand why Mr. Quo Tai-chi had brought up the Nine-Power Pact which is contrary to Kuomintang principles and made China's sovereignty dependent on eight other signatories.

He added that China should denounce the Nine-Power Pact if she is really an independent state. Asked whether he considered the Nine-Power Pact a dead letter, he declared that the Pact had never been effective from the beginning as certain clauses, which he declined to enumerate, had not been carried out by China.

The spokesman somewhat vaguely suggested that Japan considered the Pact unsuitable at present owing to the changed circumstances in the Far East.

The spokesman reiterated that autonomy is purely a popular movement of the Chinese masses in North China. He reaffirmed that the recent Japanese actions in North China were entirely within the Boxer Protocol and Sino-Japanese military agreements.

GREEK KING MEETS THE PRESS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891.
Received, December 6, 4:30 p.m.)

Athens, Dec. 6.
King George II gave an audience to foreign press representatives on Thursday evening in the reception hall of the Royal Palace.

Replying to the President of the Press Associations, the sovereign made a short speech thanking the foreign press for the friendly attitude towards Greece's efforts to lay the foundations for a better future, and expressing the hope that it would continue its activities with the same loyal support. Earlier in the day Premier Demertzis received foreign pressmen when he informed them that free and uninfluenced elections would be held as soon as the situation had become normal.

JAPANESE ACTIONS IN NORTH CHINA

Appeal To League Under Consideration

London, December 6.
Reuter understands that China is considering an appeal to the League against Japanese actions in North China on the basis of violation of the Nine-Power Treaty. China is anxious first as far as possible to make sure of the position in order to avoid repetition of the 1931 fiasco.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, the Chinese Ambassador, in an interview with Reuter, cordially welcomed Mr. Cordell Hull's statement indicating a departure from that rather isolationist attitude to which the anxieties regarding Abyssinia seemed to have pushed America generally.

In reference to the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman's denial as to the application of the Nine-Power Treaty in the North China crisis, Mr. Quo Tai-chi said it exactly illustrated the Chinese difficulties in dealing with Japan.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, speaking in the Commons, has urged China to come to terms with Japan regarding Manchuria. Actually China's view was more realistic than that of anyone else and her hesitation in coming to an agreement with Japan is due to the conviction that no agreement could achieve finality or cessation of Japan's demands, said the Ambassador.

PEIPING FEARS

Peiping, Dec. 6.
With Japanese aeroplanes roaring overhead and with fears spreading that the Japanese military authorities are ready to direct action, the population in Peiping spent a most anxious day since the aerial demonstrations which accompanied the Jehol campaign in 1933.

Nine reconnaissance planes and three twin-engined bombers went backwards and forwards over the city all throughout the morning at altitudes sometimes as low as four hundred feet.

They departed later, but in the afternoon five others of a different type appeared.

JAPANESE VIEW

A Japanese military spokesman was of opinion that the flights were intended for reconnoitring purposes connected with reports that General Sheng Chen's troops were approaching the demilitarised zone, presumably with a view to ousting Yin Ju-keng.

CHINESE DENIAL

Chinese officials flatly deny that any of General Sheng Chen's troops are approaching the demilitarised zone.

BOMBS DROPPED AT DESSIE

Palace Of Crown Prince Burned

Paris, Dec. 6.
The Crown Prince of Ethiopia's Palace was bombed and partially burned in an air raid this morning by nine Italian planes at Dessie. An American hospital was also hit and some tents burned.

Ten were killed and eleven injured. The Emperor's younger son was unhurt. Both visited the American hospital immediately after the air raid and conformed with the injured.

There were three separate raids, all being of a very violent nature and causing very great damage. The Ethiopian Government has energetically protested against the bombing of an open town and a hospital bearing the Red Cross. Italian planes last evening bombed Gondar.

DOIHARA BOMBHELL

Peiping, Dec. 6.

The disappearance of General Sung Cheh-yuan, whose whereabouts are still unknown, is seen as evidence of hardening Japanese opinion.

It is reported that General Doihara on December 4 intimated his willingness to listen to a compromise, but yesterday he dropped a bombshell on the Chinese leaders by laying down minimum Japanese requirements tantamount to autonomy.

NORTH CHINA CONDITIONS

Reviewed By Noted Economist

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Tientsin, Dec. 1.
Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, economic expert of the British Government, arrived here recently from Shanghai. While here Sir Frederick had discussions with the British Chamber of Commerce, and Chinese bankers and economists concerning British commercial interests in North China as well as the general economic position of this part of the country.

Dr. Franklin Ho, noted Chinese economist and professor of Nankai University, in a special article published in a recent issue of the "Ta Kung Pao," upon the arrival of Sir Frederick at Tientsin, paid a glowing tribute to the British Government for sending the latter to China to investigate her economic and commercial conditions as a preliminary step towards the improvement of the trade relations between Great Britain and China.

TRADE RELATIONS

"The maintenance of lasting favourable trade relations between two nations," Dr. Ho points out, "must be based upon the equality and reciprocity, and a thorough understanding of each other's economic conditions is indispensable to the development of international trade." Taking advantage of the arrival of the eminent British economist in North China, Dr. Ho reviews the economic conditions in this part of the country, which play an important part in the gigantic economic structure of China.

North China, consisting of Hopei, Shantung, Honan, Shensi, Shensi, Kansu, Chahar, Suiyuan and Ninghsia, occupies a total area of 800,000 square miles, or about one-fifth of the total area of China. It has a population of about 103,000,000 or about one-third of China's total population. The density is about 133 to the square mile, which is higher than the average density of the whole country.

The total area of cultivated land in North China is approximately 482,000,000 "mow," which is about 40 per cent of the total area of cultivated land in the country, and is larger than the total area of cultivated land either along the Yangtze River or in South west China. Among the principal agricultural products in North China are millet, cotton, and wool. The total annual output of millet is about 220,000,000 piculs, or about 55 per cent of the total annual output of millet of the whole country. The total annual output of cotton is about 7,000,000 piculs, or more than 60 per cent of the total annual output of the whole country. The total annual output of wool is about 510,000 piculs, or about 92 per cent of the total annual output of wool of the whole country.

Mr. Thomas added that a despatch had been received from the Governor in Malaya stating that in future his reports would be amplified, containing fuller information and giving the numbers of "mui-tsai."

POLITICAL DIFFICULTY

Industrially, North China also occupies an important position in the country, declares Dr. Ho. According to statistics last year, of the total of 92 cotton mills of China 22 were in North China. Their number of workmen and spindles respectively claim more than one-fifth of those of the whole country. Commercially, North China is no less important than any other part of the country. Total value of foreign trade in North China for the year 1934 was $298,000,000, more than one-third of China's total foreign trade.

Besides improvements in conservancy, irrigation, work and the development of communications, the introduction of political reforms, Dr. Ho emphasizes, is also essential to the economic development of North China. The disturbed political situation in North China has adversely affected its economic development. A strong indication is the gradual decline in commerce and industry. For economic development political stability must therefore be re-instituted. Dr. Ho takes cognizance, however, of the complexity of the present political situation in North China, which tends to add difficulty to the Government's efforts towards political reforms as economic development.

LOCAL FOOTBALL FORECASTS

The Governor's Cup Encounter Provides Thrills And Speculations

(BY "PIVOT")

Chief interest in this week's soccer games will be centred in the clash between the F.A. Team and the Combined Chinese XI on the Sookunpoo ground to-morrow in the first round of the Governor's Cup. In addition to that there are the usual league fixtures in all three divisions to-day when six senior games will be on view.

Last week's results turned out very much as expected. Steps in the interests of football will have to be taken in order to curb hasty temper and bad feelings. I was present in the South China "B"—Recreio game and the incessant blowing of the whistle by the referee certainly denoted the personal feeling of the players. Rightly speaking the referee should at least have ordered five men out of the field on that occasion. The habit of dangerous jumping, elbowing and ankle kicking should also be carefully watched.

FULL PROGRAMME TO-DAY

Six senior division games are on the card to-day, to-morrow being reserved for the Governor's Cup in which the F.A. team will be opposed to the Combined Chinese.

S. China "A" will be pitted against the lowly placed St. Joseph's team, and although they are playing without the services of Lee Wai Tong and Wong McShun both of whom are resting for to-morrow's game, their absence will have little effect on the ultimate decision of the game. S. China playing like Champions at the present moment ought to be able to collect the two points and incidentally better the goal average. The Collegians' form of late have improved but not enough to offer any stiff opposition to the Chinese. Granted that Leonard has found his shooting boots the absence of Albert Ward in the front line somewhat weakens their attack.

POLICE CHANGES

The Police after their sorrowful display against the Chinese last week are making several positional changes in their team. Their match against the Gunners (S) will no doubt give them an opportunity of testing out their new found combination. McHardy who played a sterling game last week will once again do services between the sticks with C. Pile and Blackburn in front of him. Brooks who is on the injured list will not be playing. Gough has been transferred to the left inside position and the pivotal berth has been left in the hands of Brittain, who will be flanked by North on his right and Parker on his left. Parker will thus be making a welcome return to his old position. By placing Gough in the forward line Green is dropped and Johnson will lead the attack. Now it remains for this new found team to do the necessary work to-day to live the Police up a little. The result should go in their favour.

The Chinese Athletic Club match ought to be a very keen tussle. The Chinese will be fielding practically the same team that did yeoman service for them. Club will have the return of Sydney Strange to brighten the defence up. The rest of the Club personnel will remain much the same with the exception of the doubtful starting of Robertson. Should he fall to play Mine will take his place. The game should be a very evenly contested one and the chances are two to one in the Chinese favour.

What ought to turn out to be a good match will be seen on the Chatham Road ground when the Fusiliers and Navy try conclusion. Fusiliers are still without the service of Keneghan but his substitute is doing as well as expected. Their defence is about the best set among the military teams and the forwards one and all have just that type of dash which is lacking in other teams. But one very common fault among Army teams is their inability to shoot when well placed.

The Navy lads ought to be able to provide the Fusiliers with all the sporting opposition in this game. With the arrival of other units in port they will have no dearth of talents at their disposal. Their strength lies in the defence which is a very formidable one. The forwards are a clever bunch—individually—but cohesion is wanting. A drawn game would in all probability be the result.

After their good showing against S. China "B" last week Recreio will be starting favourites against the East Lanes to-day. They will have to master that weakness of theirs—their inclination to play too much short passing. They have a dashing and brainy team with a: excellent leader in B. Gosano but the inclination of doing their fancy work especially in the intermediate line is appalling. In A.V. Gosano and Bowen they have a set of very reliable pair of backs.

East Lanes are not playing as well as ever. Their defence will have a lot to do in keeping a check on the Recreio boys but I am certain though their defence may stand up to the strain their forward line will be expertly fed by "A.V." The Recreio should win by a very small margin.

The Lyemun Gunners will have their hands full in keeping Ridley & Co. out of their territory to-day, in their match against the Lincolns. Boasting of one of the best forward lines in the League Lincolns should win this match without much difficulty.

GOVERNOR'S CUP

All roads will lead to the Sookunpoo ground to-morrow when a record crowd is expected to turn up for the match between the F.A. team and the Combined Chinese in the first round of the Governor's Cup.

I will try and analyse the F.A. Team. Rodger has been chosen to play between the sticks in preference to Rowlands. Between the two I have seen Rowlands doing wonders but I can't say the same of Rodger although I have seen him playing a very good game now and then. He is nervous when attacked and does not seem to be catching the ball so well. Rowlands on the other hand has a very fine reach and his anticipations and clearances at times were uncanny. He has been known to make spectacular saves.

G. Smith and H. Steele would be very fine pair of backs. Chris Pile is not playing so well but he can be relied upon to do his stuff on important occasions. The intermediate line sounds effective enough but in the forward line I would rather see Roberts on the left wing than Blackford. Gosano too has been playing regularly as a centre forward and his playing at right wing to-morrow will, I am sure, give rise to misgivings.

The reserve team looks as good as the chosen one. The Combined Chinese team have not been chosen as yet, but one thing is certain, Lee Wai Tong and Wong McShun who are resting to-day will be turning up to-morrow. The balance of the team will be chosen to-night. South China will be supplying the nucleus of players. The only Athletic player I can see turning out is Ho Cho Yin at right half instead of Leung Wing Chiu. South China can supply all the other materials in the forward line and this alone will be enough to prove a thorn in the F.C. team's defence.

Of the backs I much prefer to see Mak So partnering Tam Kong Pak.

The result of this game will be a very close one. Which ever side may win it ought to be able to provide all the thrills and excitement to the soccer fans.

MACAO RACE MEETING

Probables And Improbables Under Review

The Macao Jockey Club will hold its second race meeting of 1935 to-morrow and, given fair weather a good crowd should be present. The main attraction of the meeting will be the South China Cup Event in which the special sweep of $2- will be drawn. The first prize is expected to be about $70,000.

1.—The meeting opens with the Shek-O Stakes for Subscription Grifins of the Hong Kong Jockey Club who have not won more than $1,000.—Beginners' Luck (P.P. Botelph) seems the best in this race as he has beaten the same ponies four weeks ago at the Valley. However Blacksmith who is being ridden by Diets will be close but Tin Ho (Fung) I am afraid will have too heavy a burden to carry. Another probable starter will be What's the Time (Ip).

2.—The Stanley Handicap (1st Section) for D & E Class ponies over one mile will have a large field. Heart's Glory (Rosa) after his poor running last Saturday appears to have the best chance but Tillicum which is only carrying 149 lbs. will surely be very close at the finish. Copper Idol looks very good at 140 lbs. provided Deltz rides him and of the remaining probable starters Boxing Eye, Festival Eve, and Flying Tourist should be close.

3.—The 2nd section of the Stanley Handicap will again see Emergency Call and Mersey having another meeting. Mersey finished very strongly last Saturday and with the extra furlong I think he will beat Emergency Call. Valley View is a doubtful starter but should he be saddled he should run well. Partnership (Rosa) and Limelight (Fung) will comprise the balance of the field.

4.—Young Chap (Dietz) is very strongly favoured to win the South China Cup. This pony is very fit at the moment and has been rested last week. His stable companion Glad Eyes (Pin) is also well fancied but I am not sure of his condition. Plain View (Liang) a very moody animal, may cause an upset, and the other runners that should do well are Rousseau, Flybnight, and Tiny Star.

5.—Soldier of China should have no difficulty to win the Victoria Handicap despite carrying top-weight. This pony ran very well last Saturday and with the distance being one mile and a quarter his chances are better. Harvest View (Fung) should also run well as also Monoplane, (Pan) and Pride of Tintiao. Soldier of Peace is a doubtful starter but I am afraid the pony's condition is not very good at the moment.

6.—The Meeting closes with the Ladies Race in which Tillicum, Festival Eve, Flying Tourist and Plain View will be the probable starters. Not much is known about the lady Riders except that I am sure the Fair sisters will figure prominently.

PEAK SCHOOL'S SPEECH DAY

Enjoyable Evening Spent By All

A very enjoyable evening was spent by all those who were present at the Peak Club yesterday evening on the occasion of the annual speech day of the Peak School. The little children entertained the large number of visitors present by a capital concert, and a short play, which indicated that they all had been carefully coached.

An item that calls for special mention was that entitled "The Jackdaw of Rheims" which was staged by the children of classes 7 and 8.

THE REPORT

At the conclusion of the concert, Miss M. W. Newsham, Headmistress of the School, addressed the gathering on the activities of the school during the year. She said:

The school year began on September 17th with 81 pupils and ended on July 19th with 58 names on the roll. The numbers rose in January and February to 81 but declined with the Spring exodus from the Colony.

In March we had eleven pupils absent with measles. Otherwise the health of the school has been satisfactory.

We have been fortunate this year in having but few changes of staff. On January 7th Miss Anderson reported for duty from Quarry Bay School, to replace Miss Buckwell who sailed for England on January 12th. There were no other changes during the school year.

We have received, too, good reports of children who have gone on from us to other schools. Ann Forster, at the age of twelve, won an open scholarship to Headington High School, Oxford, i.e. within two years of leaving the Peak School. Her elder sister, Margaret, also a former Peak School pupil, has recently matriculated at the age of sixteen. Helen Sanger who was transferred to the Central British School, was immediately moved up to a higher class in which she took the first place at the end of the first term and at the end of the year won a Government Scholarship. We have been very pleased, too, to hear good reports of Joy Carrie and John Wynne-Jones.

GOVT'S HELP

We are very pleased that the Government has been able to vote money to enlarge two of our classrooms next year. This year a new cupboard has been supplied to fit into an alcove in Class 8, to replace a heavy, old one which took up too much space. We have also had heating lamps supplied for all the cupboards which enables us to put up more resistance to the Peak fogs. I should like to take this opportunity of thanking the staff for their helpfulness throughout the year. Our grateful thanks are due this afternoon to

(1) the Committee of the Peak Club for the loan of this hall,
(2) the Superintendent of the Botanical Department for the loan of plants,
(3) the Mothers for the trouble they have taken over the children's costumes.

We all wish to thank Mrs. Sayer for her kindness in coming here this afternoon to distribute the prizes.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTION

The prizes to the various successful pupils were then distributed by Mrs. G. R. Sayer, who, in a few well chosen words, said that she considered it an honour to be called upon to perform so pleasant a function, and that she had enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

At the conclusion, she was presented with a bouquet by little Angela Owen and Hammy Hamilton.

THE PRIZE WINNERS

Class 10
Hans Adamczewski, Collette Hindson (now in Class 9), Virginia Jenkinson, Patricia Penn, (now in Class 9), Marjorie Anderson, Martin Kenyon, (now in Class 9), Claire van Wyck, Sandy Macgown, (now in Class 9), Richard Henderson, Ian Shaw, (now in Class 9), John Pegg, Christopher Thomas, (now in Class 9).

The first named player is responsible for fixing the match. A prize presented by Mrs. Gilmore is to be played for on Tuesday, December 11 for best net score of silver and Bronze Divisions.

YACHTING NOTES

Prospects For The Single Island Race

(BY SHELLBACK.)

This evening at six thirty the Yacht Club annual race for the Ellingworth Cup starts from the Club line at North Point, the course set being round Single Island and back, a distance of sixty miles. This is the only race in Cruiser Yachts' yearly programme which aspires to the title of an ocean race and may be compared in a very modest way to the Fastnet Race at home.

For the enlightenment of those to whom the name Single Island conveys nothing at all, the easiest way to get there is to go out through Lyeemun and Footanun Passes and on leaving the latter set a course through the centre of the Ninepins; if you follow this course for twenty-three miles after you pass Footanun, you will just about hit Single Island, a severe blow. You then turn round and come back and if you do it faster than the others, you get the Cup. So far so good, but sailing is not so easy as that.

ADOPTED FOR THE FIRST TIME

The Ellingworth Cup was presented to the Yacht Club by Lt. Ellingworth, R.N., the owner of "Queen Bee" some six years ago, on the condition that it was put up for competition over a course that would be more arduous and difficult than those normally sailed. It was first won by Mr. H. S. Rouse in an "A" Class race over a course out to Discovery Bay on Lantau Island. The deep sea, feeling then came over the Committee and the Single Island course for cruisers was suggested during the 1933/4 Season; this however was turned down as being too venturesome and an alternative sixty mile course round Peng Chau Island, to the North of Mui Bay, was agreed. On this occasion the Cup was won by Mr. H. W. Dutley's four tonner "Monsoon," who completed the full distance in the rather improbable time of 13 hours 5 minutes.

Last year the Single Island course was adopted for the first time and the race again went to a four tonner, Sqd. Ldr. Keary's "Typhoon," sailed by himself and Capt. Powkes; this time, however, the winds were light and fluky and the sixty miles took some thirty one hours to sail.

UNCERTAIN WIND

And what of this year's race? Those who know the appearance of the Island round Sheko and Cape D'Aguliar in the winter, will readily realise that sailing a small yacht straight into the wind and N. E. Monsoon swell is not quite so easy as it may appear from an unemotional newspaper report. If the wind is blowing North East, the outward trip is a dead beat all the way, and there will also be a very handsome swell running; it is with this idea in mind that the race starts at 6.30 p.m. so as to make it probable that yachts will arrive after dawn on Sunday and so be able to pick up Single Island easily.

Against that the North East Monsoon does not set in seriously and regularly until after Christmas and December winds are still variable, so that a North Easter is by no means a certainty. During most of last week and the week before, the wind was blowing hard from the North East, but it backed round to the West a few days ago and then varied from West to North. If these conditions hold until Sunday, the course will be a much easier proposition, since most of the swell will have run off and Gerda Bumann, Jennifer Butlers, (now in Class 9), Ronald McEwen, Vivien Ralston, (now in Class 9), Tony O'Connor, Alan Prior.

Class 9
1st Prize, Phyllis Sayer (now in Class 8).
2nd Prize, Stephen Smith.

Class 8
For General Progress, Elizabeth Hargreaves (now in Class 8).
Class 7
1st Prize, Veronica Smith.
2nd Prize, Barbara Rolfe (now in Class 7).

Class 6
1st Prize, June Ralston and Marygold Sorby.
2nd Prize, Margaret Purves.

SPECIAL PRIZES
Miss Bicheno's Prize for Progress in Music awarded to Margaret Purves. Miss Newsham's Prizes for Neatness awarded in Class 9 to Virginia Jenkinson, Class 8 to Jean Drinnan, Class 7 to Marygold Sorby.

Mrs. Sloper's Prize for Gardening awarded to June Ralston.

the longest part of the trip, from Lam Tong Island to Sing e Is and back, will be a free reach either way. Under these circumstances fast times should be made, with the prospect of having to pick up the mark during the dark hours and a hope of getting ashore at the finish for a late breakfast.

THE MORE MERRIER

No list of starters is yet available, but there are sure to be a number of hearties who will "have a smack at it." "Typhoon" the holder and "Norseman" will probably not be out, their owners being otherwise engaged, but the four tonners will likely be well represented by Sai Lung, Tern, Monsoon and Nord Wester. Of the cruisers, we hope to see the Vice Commodore showing the crew of U & I how it is done by the real experts in the Fastnet Race and Mr. Lambert will want to follow up his winning vein in "Azuma," by reeling off the sixty miles in impeccable style. The more the merrier and hats off to the crew that wins, because they will probably have richly deserved it.

LINKING AMOY AND CHANGCHOW

A representative of the Ministry of Railroads, Nanking, with the engineer of the Canton-Kowloon Railway, have examined the derelict Amoy-Changchow railroad with a view to considering the track and its completion to Changchow and possibly the district beyond, which is rich in mineral resources. Many years ago a railway was projected between Amoy and Changchow, a distance of about thirty miles. Commencing on the mainland over from Amoy, the track was laid for some eight miles to the West River. At this point there is a famous old bridge constructed of huge blocks of stone, but as a new bridge, 40-ft. or 50-ft. in height and over 200 yards in length, was required for the track, the railway stopped at this point and no further progress was made.

H. K. STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S OFFICIAL QUOTATIONS

The week under review witnessed a welcome return of activity in the market, due partly to the decline in exchange. There was a brisk demand for shares, at improved rates, but the volume of business put through was not however, of great dimensions, owing to the scarcity of scrip. The enactment of a new local Currency Bill did not altogether come as a surprise, as the recent violent fluctuations in exchange were obviously detrimental to trade and prosperity of the Colony.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Dec 5.
Dr. Schacht's categorical refutation of the suggestions of a possibility of another currency inflation in Germany, lays emphasis of prime importance on the industrial development which is proceeding freely from disturbance, and had a stimulating effect on the share market, operators buying readily.

The rise in investors also showed greater interest than for some time past.

Prices stiffened. Fixed Interest Securities were mostly quiet, though the Hungarian State Loan advanced 1/4. Call money was at 3.
